Type A

Type A signs are made up of two parts: a Faceplate and a set of End Caps. The End Cap has been precision molded to snap tightly to the Faceplate. The End Cap conceals the mounting hardware and the cut edges of the Faceplate.

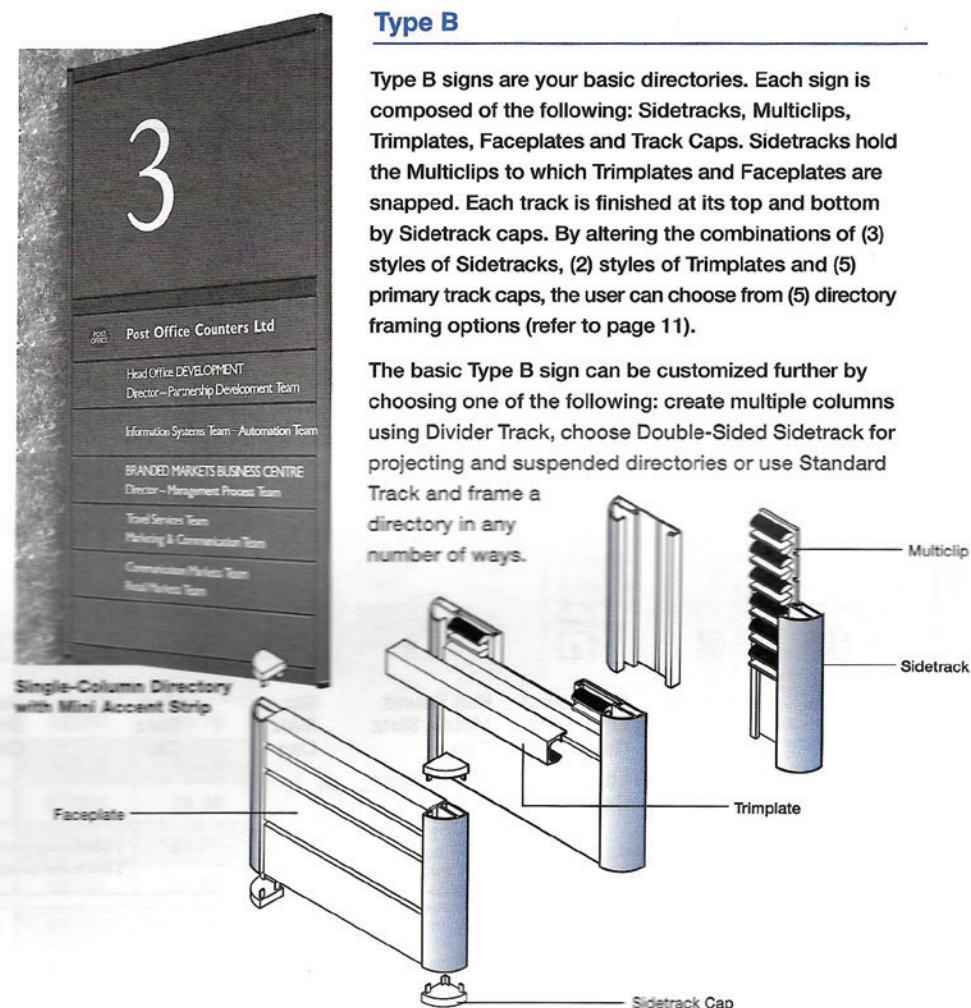

Add a stand for desk signs or snap two plates back to back with our Popper to make a projecting or suspended sign. Should the width of the faceplate require extra support, simply snap off the side of the End Cap and place behind the extrusion.

Type B

Type B signs are your basic directories. Each sign is composed of the following: Sidetracks, Multiclips, Trimplates, Faceplates and Track Caps. Sidetracks hold the Multiclips to which Trimplates and Faceplates are snapped. Each track is finished at its top and bottom by Sidetrack caps. By altering the combinations of (3) styles of Sidetracks, (2) styles of Trimplates and (5) primary track caps, the user can choose from (5) directory framing options (refer to page 11).

The basic Type B sign can be customized further by choosing one of the following: create multiple columns using Divider Track, choose Double-Sided Sidetrack for projecting and suspended directories or use Standard Track and frame a directory in any number of ways.

Interior Signs

The Slatz concept is one of versatility and simplicity. From wall and ceiling directories to personnel signs, there is a Slatz sign to accommodate each requirement you encounter while designing facility signage.

Even if you are unfamiliar with the Slatz product, it is easy to begin a signage program on your own. Simply reference these two pages. We have featured some of the basics which can be created with Slatz.

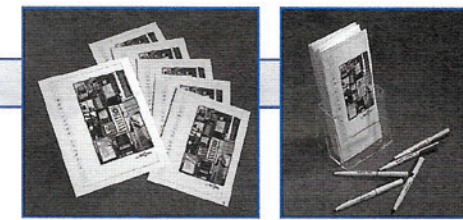

Once you determine the sign type, reference the corresponding part number below and select from two color options. Getting started is that easy ... but don't let these designs limit you from creating something totally unique. Custom signs are still available.
